

15 January 1952

MEMORANDUM FOR: Assistant Deputy Director (Administration)

SUBJECT : Communications Research and Development Report

1. Replying to your note--this is a quarterly report on the status of projects in Commo's development program. There are 62 such projects, and they include the highly technical--such as the development of 100 watt sub-base transmitter--as well as the purely administrative.

2. There are a number of very interesting ones--for example, a facsimile cipher device which permits radio transmission of classified maps and charts; an agent automatic equipment control unit which provides for fully unattended operations of all sorts of communications equipment; [REDACTED] etc.

STATINTL

STATINTL

3. The projects are divided by [REDACTED] into the following categories:

STATINTL

- a. Completed
- b. Continuing (i.e., they will always be developing)
- c. External development and production
- d. Internal development

4. To answer your note, I see no need for either you or Mr. Wolf to go over the rather lengthy report, but I am giving Mr. Wolf a copy of this memorandum, so that he may be aware that we have it in our files.

[REDACTED]
Special Assistant to DD/A

STATINTL

DD/A:RDIH:jc

Distribution:

Orig - Addressee
1 - Chrono ✓

41

0

2